Prospective Debaters Will Compete Monday For Squad Positions

Seven To Be Selected From Eleven Candidates; Munitions Question Topic

With the competitive try-outs for the debate squad to be held on Monday in room 203, the teams to represent M. S. T. C. in intercollegiate debate this season will be determined.

The try-outs will consist of six-minute speeches and three-minute rebuttal on the question, "Resolved: That the nations shall agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions."

Beginning at 4 o'clock, George Heys, Glyndon, '38, and Leverett Hoag, Harwood, N. D., '37, arguing affirmative, will meet Alwin Cocking, Fargo, '35, and Arnold Kittleson, Louisburg, '35, arguing negative. Immediately following, Charles Jahr, Hitterdal, '35, and Walter Rodgers, Fargo, '38, will uphold the affirmative debating with John Chisholm, Bessemer, Michigan, '36, and Maynard Tvedt, Newfolden, '36. At 5:15 the women candidates, Margaret Fuglie, Barrett, '36, and Valborg Sorknes, Madison, '37, affirmative, will meet Rita Redlinger, Breckenridge, '37.

Besides this new material there are three veterans of last year on the campus who are qualified for the squad without try-out. They are Lucy Grommesh, Barnesville, '37, Eunice Andrews, Glyndon, '37, and Luverne Lewis, Hawley, '36.

Dr. Archer and Mr. Murray will assist in the rating in which places on the squad will be given to seven of the eleven candidates.

The membership is as follows: first tenors—Dale Hallack, Fargo, and Lawrence Peterson, Georgetown; second tenors—Jules Herman, DeLamere, N. D., and Hugh Price, Moorhead; baritone—Joe Best, Hillsboro; Vernon Schranz, Moorhead, and Jerome Johnson, Little Sauk; bass—Art Berlin, Red Wing, and Rudolph Peterson, Moorhead.

CARDS MUST BE RETURNED

You students who are hoarding or hiding your report cards under the mattress had better dig them out and return them to the Registrar's office before Thanksgiving vacation. If you keep it longer, you won't get the good (?) news along with the rest of us when grades are out on Monday, so the authorities say.

"Tartuffe" Favorably Received By Audience

Carter, Wallace, Hallack Add
To Success With Colorful
Interpretations

(by Betty Hoag)

Interpreting with ability the role of a well-to-do burgher of the 17th century France, Vance Hallack shared honors with the leading characters, William Wallace and Clara Carter, in the presentation of "Tartuffe," by Moliere, in Weld Hall Auditorium November 15.

Received by a responsive audience the French comedy was masterfully interpreted by the entire cast, including members from Alpha Psi Omega, the Dramatic Club and the Play Production class, under the direction of Miss Ethel Tainter. Beautiful and elaborate costumes, a typical French setting, and a delightful bit of a French accent, were of featured importance in the presentation.

Plot Features Tartuffe

The plot centered around Tartuffe, played by William Wallace, who as a hypocrite and a self-seeking adventurer, disguised his greed beneath a mask of piety to turn everything to his own advantage.

Margaret Fuglie as Madame Pernelle, Orgon's opinionated old mother; Wayne Parker, taking the part of Damis, son of Orgon; and Trevor Sandness, portraying Cleante, an even-tempered and sensible brother-in-law, depicted their roles admirably well. Gladys Flom interpreted with success the role of Mariane, daughter of Orgon, who had been affianced to Valere, depicted by Joe Best, and who faced the dilemma of being promised by her father to Tartuffe also.

Accurate Interpretations

Marjorie Fields as Elmire, wife of Orgon, who, greatly admired, made love to Tartuffe under disguise; and Leverett Hoag as a bailiff portrayed the parts with skill. Accurate interpretations were especially noticeable in the scenes between Orgon, played by Vance Hallack, and the maid of the household, Clara Carter, in the third act in which the plot received vivacity from new schemes employed against the villain, who fails to overcome his disadvantages at the end of the plot.

The minor roles of a police officer, played by Herman Koch, and Flippote, Madame Pernelle's servant, portrayed by Bernice Maland, were interpreted well and added to the success of the presentation.

Committees Ply Full Speed Ahead With 'Pleasure Cruiser' As Theme Of Jubilee

(by Rudolph Peterson)

"Yo-ho, yo-ho, with a barrel of ink, reams of paper, and a row of finger-nail chawers!" So runs the theme song of the script committee for the 1935 Jan-Jubilee, with Joe Best rendering the vocal refrain. The committee thinks that it will have the script ready by vacation (Thanksgiving, not Easter). However, we'll save our dusty steers-er-musty deers-aw-lusty cheers for that grand occasion.

The general theme of the Jubilee this year will be in the form of a pleasure cruise on board a yacht—not a bad idea, they can "dunk" the director in the midst of one of his (or her) torrid temperamental rages. Then again they may be planning a real "isolation" on their boat in the midst of the "Romantic Red."

About 70 damsels (gals) tried out last Monday for the 40 odd places in the various choruses, says Helen Populous-er-Peoples (pardon me). The candidates were judged by none other

Students To Arrange For Yearbook Photos

C. J. Brown Advises Departmental Editors On Sectional
Page Plans

Students may obtain tickets for taking individual Praeceptor pictures beginning next Monday in the Praeceptor office, room 208, MacLean Hall. Individual cuts to appear in the yearbook may be arranged for by one of two plans. Students may pay $1.25 to the Praeceptor office where they will receive a ticket which when presented at the Oylo Studio, Moorhead, entitles them to their picture. Under the second plan, any student may obtain both a cut for the Praeceptor and 24 regular application pictures by payment of $2.35 at the Praeceptor office.

In order to make use of this special offer, students must have their pictures taken either before December 6 or after January 2. If students wish to have the picture taken between December 6 and Christmas, the photographer's Christmas rush season, they will pay the studio an additional charge.

Discussing the problems of the yearbook, Mr. C. J. Brown, St. Paul, conferred with the Praeceptor staff November 30. Mr. Brown, who is manager of the annual department, Buckbee-Mears Company, met with each department editor and helped to arrange definite page plans for each section.

Art work for the opening section and division pages has been completed and Signe Olson, editor-in-chief, is awaiting cover design samples which are being drawn up by the Molloy Company of Chicago.

Prompt Action Checks Scarlet Fever Threat; Five Cases Reported

Examinations, Isolations Prevent Spread; Social Functions Postponed

Acting with promptness and vigor, the College, cooperating with state and local health authorities, has the threatened scarlet fever epidemic well in hand. To date only five College students have taken the disease and four from the Training School, where the first cases were reported. Others, however, are being detained for further examination, and the College this past week has undergone a thorough examination. The Training School is preparing to reopen Monday.

Not Necessary To Close Schools

Shortly after the first clear diagnosis was made, Dr. G. L. Gosslee, resident director of the College, notified the State Health Department and made plans for their cooperation with Dr. Ingebritson, Moorhead city health officer.

"Past experience has shown that except for rural schools where nearly all pupils are ill, it is generally satisfactory to keep schools open, since supervision of classes is more easily obtained. Regular work can be continued without much danger of spreading the disease, but play is not advisable. The disease is spread from person to person contact," declared Dr. W. P. Greene, St. Paul, senior epidemiologist of the Minnesota Department of Health following a survey of the situation.

Conduct Examinations

Others who assisted the investigation were Mrs. Pauline Gager from the State Department of Health and Miss Mary Lindquist, Clay County Red Cross Nurse, as well as Miss Frick, head of the College Physical Education Department. Mrs. Gager examined

Dr. Hagen To Speak On Medicine Heroes

"Modern Trend Of Religious Thought,"
Address Given By Rev. Lindley

Dr. O. J. Hagen, Moorhead, former member of the Minnesota Teachers College Board and now a member of the Board of Regents for the University of Minnesota, will speak at Chapel exercises Wednesday. Dr. Hagen has spoken here on previous occasions. His topic will be, "Heroes of Medicine and What They Mean To You."

Rev. Lindley of the First Congregational church, Fargo, spoke upon "The Modern Trend of Religious Thinking" in Chapel Wednesday. He emphasized the fact that the stress in religion is changing from the personal to the social aspect.

"I'm not thinking of religion," he said, "as a thing principally centered around cathedrals and stained glass windows. I like to believe that religion has in some measure broken its theological bounds. Religion in a large sense is more than theological ceremonies; religion is life in God as the soul of man."

Rev. Lindley continued by briefly reviewing the religious trend from earlier ages to the present day. "Religion is that something greater than ourselves with which we may identify ourselves," said Rev. Lindley. "Real religion is not dead; its day may be just coming."

Between Two Worlds

A NEW WORLD is being born, says Nicholas Murray Butler, in the preface to a volume of essays entitled "Between Two Worlds." What that world will be depends upon the men and women of today and tomorrow, he continues. "Youth can do the job, but only if it be an instructed, educated, reflective youth."

The President of Columbia University is saying what most college students recognize—that we are living in a stirring, restless period, a period of struggle between old and new political, social and economic patterns. What we do not often realize, however, is that we are a part of that changing world. We like to read our history out of books, failing to realize that we are producing vital history of our own. The new world of which he speaks is not only a world of Germany, Russia, or Washington; it is a world which includes Moorhead and western Minnesota.

The leaders of that era are developing on our campus and on others throughout the country today. We as students are preparing to fit ourselves for that new-born world. The contribution which we will make depends largely upon the extent to which we take advantages of our college opportunities.

Still A Problem

REGULATION of the liquor traffic is a more or less menacing problem in every community throughout the nation. Moorhead, although theoretically dry, is no exception. The nation learned that the evils of the old saloons did not vanish with the mere enactment of a prohibition law, nor—it is now learning—with the repeal of that law. The problem of how to handle the liquor traffic still remains.

It is often argued that education rather than legislation is the proper method to curb the liquor evils. Science recognizes that the use of liquor is inherently dangerous to both the individual and society. But merely teaching the scientific facts will not solve the problem unless the individual, himself, acts in accordance with what he knows.

This is another illustration of the point that the proof of an education is in its application.

Half Educated?

MORE THAN 150 students on this campus do not engage in any extra-curricular activity whatever, according to the check-up made in connection with the Point system.

That situation would attract little comment in the horse and buggy days when mastery of the three R's was the sole requirement for an education. An education today, however, calls for more than mere acquisition of book knowledge. In addition it calls for qualities of leadership, initiative, and sociability which probably can be best developed in outside-the-classroom pursuits. Some educators go so far as to state that these activities constitute one-half of an education. If that be true, then one-third of the student body is being just half educated.

There is a wide variety of extra-curricular opportunities offered here, ranging from social to the athletic and the intellectual to the artistic. Many of these are open to any who signify their willingness to participate. Whatever the reason, whether it is an inferiority complex or plain indifference, that keeps the 150 on the sidelines, it might be well for them to act upon the suggestion, "get into some activity and make your presence felt."

"There is a bright side to everything," quoth the scarlet fever victim as she viewed her complexion in a mirror.

Book Shelf

Geography And Stamps

SOMETHING NEW, interesting, and valuable is appearing for the first time between the covers of Kent B. Stiles' book, "Geography and Stamps." This book presents the fascinating story of exploration, discovery, and world expansion from the days of Columbus to the modern era of the exploits of the Graf Zeppelin as reflected by the designs of national postage stamps.

It is a tale of romance and adventure. More than that, it offers excellent reference material of unique value to stamp collectors especially because of its many illustrations and photographs of stamps. Parents or teachers who wish to encourage the child's interest in a stamp collecting hobby will find that "Geography and Stamps" provides excellent means of motivation.

Every stamp-issuing country of the past and present is included. Lost and forgotten lands are re-discovered through their surviving postal paper—why they disappeared, where they went, what countries succeeded them, and by what wars or treaties.

Mr. Stiles, an authority on the subject, is also the author of the popular "Stamps—An Outline of Philately" and is the stamp department editor of "The American Boy" magazine.

An Analysis and Interpretation of the Highlights
Occurring in the Week's News
By Maynard Tvedt

HOW MANY OF US realize that war is actually raging between Paraguay and Bolivia? Fortunately, the fighting in the Gran Chaco region has so far been confined to these two nations. The League of Nations peace settlement has been rejected, however, and as the tide of battle brought the contending forces close to her border, Argentina tripled the armed forces guarding her boundary.

PROOF OF THE importance of the Saar plebiscite is dramatically illustrated by the fact that Germany is spending thousands of marks to bring back every eligible voter for the election. No less than 400 are expected to arrive from New York.

A YEAR AGO it seemed that the political career of Huey P. Long, the Louisiana Kingfish, was over. Today after gaining complete control of Louisiana in the recent elections, Mr. Long looks toward the White House for new fields of conquest.

COMMENTARIES--

Blotches Just Lipstick;
"Red" Turns Poetical;
Bessemer Celebrates.

Excitement comes in hunks. The truck strike barely over, scarlet fever barges in with an influx of Red Cross nurses and bay-windowed state inspectors. Everyone imagines he is developing all the symptoms every few hours, and the infirmary, the fourth floor Comstock and one-half of Wheeler are full of people who "might" have it.

Jerry Hoel had second floor pretty well worked up the other night when she retired to bed with scarlet fever blotches. During the hullabaloo, someone compared her breakings-out with the open lipstick on her dresser. Jerry has recovered.

The program Friday night at Mil-dew seemed to be: (1) come into the dorm, (2) see your bed either ripped up or gone, (3) go into the room next door, (4) dump bed out window or turn upsidedown, (5) guard your own room the rest of the night.

Jean Wubbens is again at large. Her quarantine made her so lonesome that since she came out, she practically springs at one.

Typical scene in Comstock on third floor: Lucy Grommish and her wash-board, trotting down the hall with a faint trail of Lux behind.

Carol May Nettland got an invitation for a date Sunday night, including this cryptic warning, "Don't dress up. We're going to play football."

Imagine Caca's embarrassment when he followed a sailor suit around the halls for half an hour only to find it was the wrong girl in the right suit.

Lost, strayed or stolen—"Red" Monson's little brother, "Monk." He was gone all weekend and the boys were so worried. (She's a Burn-et).

Gotta's birthday was on Friday so the Bessemer boys went out on Tuesday in order that they might stay in Sunday so they could attend school on Monday. Figure it out for yourself.

And now, the Baita guys, and do they! Poor Davy DuVall, he's still chasing daisies or Violets or something.

In the corner of the exchange I heard Red Monson saying, peevishly: "Of all the colors that I've seen, Red is the baddest one; I mean To have it grow right on my head, So lots of people call me 'Red.'"

Herbie Lange has been giving away kisses. Now don't get excited, girls, I mean chocolate kisses in tinfoil. Foiled again!

"The difficulty I find in directing an orchestra of feminine musicians is in making the orchestra balance," says Prof. Jose Onate, of Boston University.

A MASSACHUSETTS referendum vote November 6 shows that 62 percent of the voters favor American entrance into the League of Nations. Does Massachusetts differ in this respect from her sister states, or have other states merely failed to express their convictions?

THE LONDON NAVAL conversations are pre-destined to fail miserably unless the nations alter their present uncompromising attitude. Surely any reasonable agreement for limitation is more desirable than an unrestricted naval armament race.

Opposites Marry? Do Boils Purify? Ask Me Another

Do toads cause warts? Did Betsy Ross design the American flag? Do opposites marry more often than likes? Do boils purify the blood? Your answers to these and a number of similar questions will in part indicate the extent to which you are an educated man or woman, according to A. E. Wiggam.

Wiggam, in his recent book, "The Marks of an Educated Man," states that the popular notions are always wrong and that a mark of an educated person is that he knows they are wrong.

A test of 31 statements based on Wiggam's chapter on popular notions and superstitions was given to the freshman psychology class this week by Dr. A. M. Christensen. Even the best had five mistaken notions. No one, however, held that spitting on fish bait brings good luck, and only two believed that the majority is always right.

Most of the freshmen accepted the popular but false notions that brown-eyed people marry blue-eyed people more often than they do the browns; that science is always changing; that eating green apples causes more colic than ripe apples; that Betsy Ross designed the American flag; that, on the average, the tall marry the short, the big the small, and the fat the lean; and that one can read specific character traits in the face.

Some even believed that a snake will not die until sunset, that when a cat eats grass rain will come soon; that if March comes in like a lamb, it goes out like a lion; and that red hair indicates a fiery temper.

DRAGONS PLACE SIX MEN ON ALL-STAR ELEVEN

Three Men Placed On Second Team And Two Given Special Mention

Rules Are Changed In Regard To The Transfer Of Students From Other Colleges

(by Carl Fridlund)

The mighty Dragons reaped the reward for an undefeated football season by garnering six positions on the mythical Northern Teachers College Conference all-star aggregation selected by the coaches at the Conference meeting held in Minneapolis last Saturday.

Wayne Stephens and Marconeri were placed at the end posts, Serbin at tackle, Scheela at the signal calling position, with Hollister and Co-captain Edlund at the halfback berths. On the alternative team, the Dragons also placed three men, Co-captain Bjerkness, Schranz and Erickson, while two were given honorable mention, namely, Burke at halfback and Mikulich at guard.

Duluth Places Two

Duluth, Conference champs, placed two on the first team. St. Cloud, Bemidji and Winona each got one berth.

The selection for the all-Conference team was based on the total number of points received for all positions. In this manner, Co-captain Bjerkness was knocked from the all-star lineup, since Kozlowski, of Winona, received votes for both guard and end positions, and thus received the coveted position.

Ineligibility Upheld

The ineligibility of Gotta and Yatchak was upheld unofficially and this deprived them of any consideration for all-Conference honors. The rules governing the transfer of students by which these men were made ineligible, were clarified. If accepted at the spring meeting they will read that any player transferring from any school, no matter how much time elapses between enrollments, must be in residence at the Northern Conference school for one term before he is eligible to compete in any inter-collegiate activity.

At the conference meeting, Coach Alex J. Nemzek scheduled four Conference games for next fall which he hopes will enable the Dragons to cop the title. The games are as follows: Duluth Teachers, October 12 (here); Bemidji Teachers, October 19 (there); St. Cloud Teachers, October 25 (here).

Winona Teachers, November 11 (there).

In addition to the above games, Coach Nemzek has carded Concordia on September 28, and North Dakota State and the University of North Dakota with the dates to be announced later.

Sideline Slants

By Carl Fridlund

Oh, yes, basketball is rapidly getting into its full stride with about forty candidates out to give battle to the six lettermen. The Dragon squad is the most promising for quite a while and Coach Nemzek can be seen with a sublime look on his ruddy countenance as he surveys his young charges with that paternal gaze so characteristic of all good coaches.

One letterman has returned to the field who was not in school last year and he bears the name of Cliff Rasmussen and hails from Fargo. Standing six feet, four inches, he gives promise of being an outstanding candidate for the Dragon quint. With him neck and neck is big Bud DuVall, the Osakis Flash, who is set for a year of fast competition.

Another protege is Maynard Thompson, who is returning to school the winter quarter, and as things look, he is quite certain to hold down the guard position he held last year along with "yours truly." This gives the Dragons two tall guards to snare and recover the balls from the backboard, a primary requisite of a good basketball team.

The Dragon spectators will be treated to a well-dressed basketball quint when the team takes the floor. All the uniforms are of scarlet satin trimmed with white braid. This combination is about the flashiest to be found in these parts. Wait and see!

Jimmies Open Dragon Basketball Campaign; Six Lettermen Lead Promising Cage Forces

Dakotans Boast Well-Balanced Quint For Initial Tilt Here December 8

Now that the Dragon football team has hung up such an impressive season the future basketball stars are vowing to do just as well, if not better, in their coming 1934-35 season. Coach Nemzek claims that the basketballers' remarks in and about the locker room seem to indicate a very determined group of championship seekers. The opening game here on December 8, just two weeks hence, with Jamestown, will give the Dragons something to think about, as the Jimmies will present a strong, well-balanced team of regulars from last season.

The prospective material that is already showing classy form in practice centers around the returning lettermen with Captain Carl Fridlund, Alden Christensen and Maynard Thompson handling the guard positions; Herby Lange and Bibs Matson, at forward posts; and Wally Erickson and Cliff Rasmussen, elongated center from Fargo, performing at the pivot position.

Reserves Promising

Reserves showing strong potentialities at forward are Dave DuVall, Osakis; and Orvin Rife, Wahpeton, while Neil Wohlwend, Barnesville, and Willard Burke, Detroit Lakes, are working for guard positions. The Freshman squad shows promising material that will develop with experience. Bill Acheson and Odis Legrand, former Moorhead High School stars, "Doc" Elstad, College High School product; Henry Stevenson, Moorhead; Berthold Campbell; Walt Rogers, Fargo; Dave Martin, Bird Island; Gordon Abell, Harris and Neal Morstad, Fergus Falls; and Vincent Yatchak, Wakefield, Michigan, are outstanding.

Northern Lights

Folks have the most tantalizing and persistent way of dropping caustic comment on my desk.

In a fine Spencerian flourish, the most biting indictment of the past week says: "You are always trying to mine a giggle out of football and basketball and sometimes baseball and track. Why don't you give ping pong a break?"

Well, that seems to be a fair question; not that ping pong needs a break because if you are fooling around Sliv's recreation room any of these winter afternoons you might see quite a few spectators paying homage to the miniature tennis players.

But just to satisfy the yen of a heckler, I will take down my back hair right now and admit that I slipped in the other night and saw Wallace and Janitor Brown settle a pretty tepid argument.

I was particularly magnetized by the hula-hula windup which Sliv has taught his ping pong proteges.

The Victory banquet for the football squad that was to be held last Tuesday has been postponed to next Tuesday, November 27. Lettermen will be announced and next season's football captain will be chosen at the banquet.

With the thought that the American classroom and the film theater have much in common, and that many pictures coming out of Hollywood can illustrate in a few hours what it takes the text-books months to accomplish, Paramount pictures are offering awards totaling $1,500 for original essays on a variety of subjects.

Student Commission Sponsors Seal Drive

First Commemorative Seal Ever Issued Honors Work Of Dr. Fudeau

The Student Commission is sponsoring the sale of Christmas Seals on the Campus, according to Orvin Richardson, president, who is in general charge of arrangements. The drive will be started after the Thanksgiving vacation.

What is the story of the little red cottage on the 1934 Christmas Seal? This question is of double interest to students because the little cottage represents an important step in the conservation of life and health of young people, and this twenty-eighth annual seal is important as the first commemorative seal ever issued.

Fifty years ago, Dr. Edward Livingston Fudeau, a victim of tuberculosis, left his family and friends and went to Saranot Lake in the Adirondacks. There Dr. Fudeau regained his health and found the curative powers to be sunshine, rest, and outdoor life. After his discovery, he built the tiny cottage, which has come to be affectionately known as "Little Red," in an attempt to bring health to other tubercular patients. From this small beginning the modern sanatorium with full equipment for fighting the White Plague has evolved. The fight against tuberculosis has been materially aided by the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. This year "Little Red" appears on the Christmas Seals as a commemoration of Dr. Fudeau's efforts.

Miss Hawkinson Attends Political Science Meetings

Miss Hawkinson spent the weekend in Minneapolis at the American Political Science Association meeting sponsored by the Minnesota Political Science department. At the meeting were representatives from private colleges, teachers colleges, junior colleges, universities, and public schools. The topic for discussion was: "What can be done to improve the teachers of Political Science?" A resolution was adopted that teachers be trained for a broad field of work in social studies, including history, political science, economy, and sociology.

One of the features was the evening banquet at which Dr. J. G. Rockwell, Minnesota Commissioner of Education, acted as toastmaster. Of particular interest was a speech made by Ralph Smith, M. S. T. C. alumnus. Mr. Smith urged the formation of a Minnesota council of teachers of social studies.

Play Contest Sponsored By Fargo Fine Arts Club

The Drama Section of the Fine Arts Club, Fargo, is sponsoring a one-act play contest, which opens November 1, 1934, and closes January 15, 1935. Anyone may enter this contest. A $10 prize will be awarded the winner. Anyone interested may obtain further information by communicating with the Fine Arts Club, Fargo.

Prolonged student agitation and disorder has caused the closing of the University of Nueva Leon in Mexico. A socialistic state university will be opened to replace it.

Victims Are Improving
People who actually had scarlet fever were placed in the detention hospital in Fargo because ordinary hospitals cannot take care of this type of disease. These people are progressing rapidly from last reports.

On Wednesday morning the same examinations were given to the College High School students, then repeated on Thursday morning as a second check-up.

"The Training School students live at home and it was closed to avoid contacts," declared Miss Frick. "The burden of the situation is then put upon the shoulders of the parents. In the case of the College, it is kept open because we feel we can better check the students and thus prevent the spread of the disease."

"There is no cause for hysteria. The important thing is to use every measure of precaution," continued Miss Frick. "Anyone who wishes can do so by keeping himself in as good condition as possible and staying out of crowds."
